FIRST, THEN A CHOICE

Name: ..... Date: .....

Letting the child pick the reward is the cheapest way to make a board work, because the thing they chose this minute is the thing they will work for this minute. Offer the two pictures, wait for a point, a word or a reach, then move the picture they chose onto the board and cover the other one.

FIRST

what I have to do

THEN I CHOOSE

or

I chose ..... and I earned it at ..... **.

If the child reaches for both, say "you can pick one now and one later" and point to the board again. If they refuse both, the rewards are not worth working for: find two new ones before the next session.

For non-commercial, education use only