The life of Martin Luther King Jr.

173 words

Martin Luther King Jr. was born on January 15, 1929, in Atlanta, Georgia. When he grew up, he became a minister.

At that time, many laws in the United States kept Black people and white people apart. In Montgomery, Alabama, Black people had to sit at the back of the bus. In 1955, a woman named Rosa Parks was arrested for refusing to give up her seat. Dr. King led the Montgomery bus boycott: for more than a year, Black riders stayed off the buses until the unfair rule was changed.

Dr. King believed in peaceful protest: marches and speeches instead of fighting. On August 28, 1963, he gave his "I Have a Dream" speech at the March on Washington. In 1964, he won the Nobel Peace Prize.

On April 4, 1968, Dr. King was killed in Memphis, Tennessee. People all over the world were sad, but his work went on. Today we honor him on Martin Luther King Jr. Day, the third Monday of January. It became a national holiday in 1986.
