The Snow Day Contest

140 words

Snow fell all night, and in the morning school was closed. Ava and her brother Theo raced outside. "Let's have a contest," said Theo. "The best snow animal wins." Theo started a huge snow bear. He rolled three giant balls and stacked them. Ava chose something smaller. She made a snow rabbit with long ears made from icicles and a carrot nose. By lunchtime Theo's bear was taller than their dad. But it was so heavy that it began to lean. Then, with a soft crunch, its head slid off. Theo groaned. Ava's rabbit still sat neatly by the fence. "You win," Theo said. Ava shook her head. She stuck the bear's head back on and gave it the icicle ears. "Now it is a snow bear-rabbit," she said. "We both win." Theo laughed, and they went in for cocoa.
