FIRST / THEN AT HOME

Name: ..... Date: .....

The same board for parents, with twelve pairs that already work in most houses. Pick one pair, write or draw it on the board, and say the sentence the same way every time: "first shoes, then front seat". Say it once, then wait. Repeating it five times teaches the child that the fifth time is the one that counts.

FIRST	THEN
draw or write it	draw or write it

TWELVE PAIRS THAT WORK AT HOME

First Shoes on then ride in the front seat

First Coat hung up then tablet for ten minutes

First Hands washed then snack

First Toys in the box then bubble bath

First Pajamas on then tickles and a song

First Hair brushed then sticker on your hand

First Teeth brushed then two pages of the bedtime book

First Plate in the sink then yard time

First Five minutes of reading then TV show

First Seat belt clicked then choose the music

First One spoon of dinner then the cup with the lid you like

First Walk to the car then carry the keys

THE TWO RULES THAT MAKE IT WORK

1. The THEN has to happen, straight away, every time, even on a bad morning. A board you break once takes two weeks to repair.
2. Never use something the child already gets for free as the THEN. If dessert comes anyway, dessert cannot be earned.

For non-commercial, education use only