Eight of each symbol, seventy-two altogether. Print on card, cut along the dashed squares and keep the set in an envelope. Lay a symbol above each word when the child reads a sentence; put the symbols back in the envelope at the end so the material stays complete.

Eight nouns, articles and adjectives is enough for any sentence on these sheets. If a set wears out, print this page again rather than mixing two sizes of symbol: the sizes carry meaning, so a noun triangle must always be the biggest triangle on the table.
