MEET THE ARTIST

Pablo Picasso was born in Málaga, Spain, in 1881. His father was an art teacher, and Pablo could draw well before he could read. As a young man he moved to Paris. For a few years he painted sad pictures mostly in shades of blue, which we now call his Blue Period. Then, with his friend Georges Braque, he invented a new style called Cubism. Cubist paintings break people and objects into flat shapes and show them from several sides at once, so a face might have two eyes on one side and a nose seen from the front. In 1937 Picasso painted Guernica, a huge black, white and grey painting about the bombing of a Spanish town during a war. Picasso worked for almost eighty years and made about 50,000 paintings, drawings, sculptures and ceramics.
